ETHS
FOUNDATION

DEAR FRIENDS

It's been a great year to be a Wildkit! Not only are the students back in the classroom, but, thanks to YOU, we exceeded our fundraising goals in FY21. After a lengthy period of remote learning, the Foundation's commitment to equity and excellence at ETHS is more important than ever.

When students returned to in-person learning, our transformed campus was ready and waiting for them, thanks to YOUR gifts:

- A brand-new Literacy Lab opened in September, with a resolute cohort of reading interventionists applying proven strategies to build literacy skills for ETHS and elementary school students in our community
- Dynamic sound and lighting were added to the ETHS Auditorium to enhance performances and give "crew" members firsthand career experience with industry-quality equipment
- Innovative programs, including Geometry in Construction and STEAM classes, are leveraging our world-class faculty and building, and inspiring mid-21st century learners.

During the pandemic, the Foundation's Student Response Fund provided technology, hotspots, and emergency resources to help keep students on track. Now your gifts are providing iKit internships and job shadowing

Student Response Fund provides iKit Internships and Job Shadowing for real-world work experience

Since 2008, the Foundation has supported Wildkits by creating transformative, dynamic learning spaces that inspire students to find their sense of belonging at ETHS.

During the pandemic, the Foundation had a chance to pivot its priorities to address the immediate needs of students through the Student Response Fund. In 2020, this fund provided internet hotspots and helped fund Kit-Care packages that supported students' mental and physical well-being while learning from home. This year, thanks to your generous support, the Foundation extended its reach by supporting iKit internships that offer students workforce experience.

“We went up to the [operating room], and we got to see the trays, and it was more of a job shadow. The second day, it was like we were actually interns, doing the job, so that’s what really got me, and it was a hands-on experience. It was just fun. I think I could actually do that for a career, and it’s a steppingstone into the hospital so wherever you start is not where you end.”

— LASHYLAH BOWEN
CLASS OF 2022

The iKit Internship program, created as an extension of the Mayor’s Summer Youth Employment Program, has grown and flourished under the dedicated efforts of ETHS Career Partnership Manager Tana Francellno. Ms. Francellno recruits and prepares students and matches them with business partners for paid summer internships and job shadow experiences. The Foundation provides stipends that allow students to take time off of part-time jobs to explore career pathways. The ability for students to receive stipends while exploring different career opportunities was an important priority for both Ms. Francellno and ETHS Foundation Executive Director, Joanne Bertsche, and has proven to be a rewarding incentive to students. This support also allows businesses and organizations the opportunity to “hire” interns despite the economic challenges that arose during the pandemic.

During Spring Break, the iKit program launched its inaugural Job Shadowing Week. Twenty-six Wildkits shadowed different fields with nine local employers throughout the community. From hospitality to health care to information technology, students gained valuable experience in careers they might or might not want to pursue post high school. ETHS Senior Lashylah Bowen shadowed a sonographer and a sterile processing technician at NorthShore Evanston Hospital. For Lashylah, it confirmed her interest in becoming a surgical technologist one day. “I think I could actually do that for a career, and it’s a steppingstone into the hospital so wherever you start is not where you end.”

Your investments are providing new avenues for all students to reach their full potential whether it is a college or career pathway.

experiences to give them an edge entering the workforce.

This year's major project, Alumni Hall (coming Summer 2023), will be a robust launching pad for our celebration of the building's Centennial in 2024. Leveraging design from NU Kellogg's Hub, this state-of-the-art learning and conference center will bridge the past and the future, celebrating ETHS's rich history and connecting students and faculty with leaders across the globe.

The ETHS Foundation celebrated Dr. Eric Witherspoon's transformative 16-year tenure as SUPERintendent. We look forward to welcoming and working with his successor, Dr. Marcus Campbell, to continue his legacy of equity and excellence. We hope you will continue to invest in our students and help us make advancements to keep ETHS an innovative monument to secondary education. Thank you so much for committing and connecting to ETHS and its noble mission!!!

New stage lighting in the ETHS auditorium is raising performances to a new level. The spring musical, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, was even more dazzling with now possible special effects.

With deep Wildkit gratitude,

Rick Kolsky, Parent '99 '04

To the people who give back to ETHS, you don't know how much you have improved this school without physically being here. It has really been amazing to watch it grow and it impacts us students day to day. It's pretty awesome.

Superintendent Witherspoon thanks his 'Wildkit family' at ETHS Foundation benefit

By Heidi Randhava

Throughout his 16-year tenure as superintendent of Evanston Township High School District 202, Eric Witherspoon, affectionately called "Spoon" by many ETHS students, has been widely recognized for his educational leadership. Witherspoon, who announced last fall he planned to retire at the end of the school year, was honored April 2 at the ETHS Foundation benefit party, "Wild for ETHS" at Robert Crown Community Center.

Dr. Witherspoon received the inaugural Crystal Spoon Award, presented by ETHS Foundation Board President Rick Kolsky.

There were rounds of applause as Kolsky read the award inscription, "With gratitude for furthering excellence and equity in education for all ETHS students, championing a stronger and more impactful ETHS Foundation, and inspiring alumni and the wider community to transform the ETHS campus."

Kolsky said Witherspoon represents "a monument to inclusive, 21st century secondary education. ... Eric's vision was instrumental in the Foundation's initial formation more than a decade ago, and he has been a tireless champion and resource to the board, both as a fundraiser and as an advocate for transformative capital projects."

Kolsky credited Witherspoon with helping the Foundation deliver a wide variety of diversity, equity and inclusion projects, including the ETHS Literacy Lab, all-gender locker room, Automotive Technology Lab, Advanced Manufacturing Lab and construction site for Geometry in Construction.

Cheers erupted when Witherspoon accepted the award with the phrase he has come to be known for throughout the Evanston community: "Well, it's a great day to be a Wildkit."

He thanked the ETHS Foundation Board, staff and volunteers, as well as guests and community members for providing the support "that is so vital to keep this work going.

"This school is a family ... I really mean that," he said "And when I say that to the students, they embrace that. ... It's a family and not all high schools in the country have that kind of a feeling.

"I consider it the greatest honor of my life to have been part of this school, to be a Wildkit. And to know that my wife, Cynthia, and I will remain in the community after I retire, because we want to continue to find ways to give back to this wonderful community. Go Kits!"

Dr. Witherspoon's last day as superintendent is June 30.

This is an abbreviated version of a story that originally appeared in the Evanston RoundTable on April 5, 2022.
